Hi, I’m Oli
Reinsurance Broker, London

MY ROLE AT GUY CARPENTER
I am a Reinsurance Broker working with clients based in Central and Eastern Europe and more recently in Israel. My role is to identify the appropriate risk transfer solutions for our clients to ensure that they are able to achieve their goals and objectives. On a day to day basis this can mean: understanding client goals and challenges; portfolio analysis; advising clients on the best way to transfer risk; distribution, marketing and negotiating with reinsurers; and much more.

WHY I CHOSE A CAREER IN (RE)INSURANCE
During my studies it became apparent that I had an interest in pursuing a career in Finance. Reinsurance was not on my radar as it was - and still is - a well kept secret, however this changed when a family friend introduced me to its existence. After a few discussions and a lot of research, it became clear that this was a dynamic, challenging and most of all a people business; all of which appealed to me. The industry offered a number of graduate schemes, which was important to me so that I could identify within which business function I would be best suited to establish my career.

WHAT HAS SURPRISED ME THE MOST
The (re)insurance industry is a very large market place for jobs, providing opportunities for candidates with an array of skill sets. Therefore, you can have a successful career in this industry no matter your educational background and interests. In fact, diversity of backgrounds and interests makes for a thriving industry.
