

Our Role with Respect to your Personal Information and Privacy Rights

This Privacy Notice (this “Notice”) is intended to inform you of our policies and practices regarding the collection, use, retention, and disclosure of any personal information that we collect or receive about you in connection with our provision of reinsurance intermediary services, including analytical, advisory or risk transfer activities conducted in conjunction with such services (our “Services”). We provide our Services pursuant to a contract with our corporate client (“Client”), which is the business ultimately responsible for determining how your personal information will be processed. As such, we act as a “service provider” when it comes to handling personal information, which means all of the personal information that we collect from or about you in connection with our Services is processed under the direction of our Client and governed by our agreement with our Client. We have no direct ownership over your personal information. Instead, our collection, use, sharing, and retention of your personal information is limited to providing the Services for which our Client has engaged us.

If you are using our Services in connection with your duties of employment or by virtue of some other relationship with our Client, we encourage you to review that Client’s privacy notice to understand the full scope of how your personal information will be handled. This includes any processing performed by the Client.

Further, in any case where we are acting as a service provider to a Client, if you wish to exercise any rights that may be available to you under certain data privacy laws, you should direct your request to the Client, which is the party responsible for receiving, assessing, and responding to your requests.